Giauque Charges That Teachers Are Assessed.

DEMANDS INVESTIGATION

ECCLESIASTICAL INFLUENCES USED, CRITCHLOW CHARGES.

proper tribunal that ecclesiastical influence has been used to further the interests of certain candidates at this election. I will allege and prove that there is a union of affairs of church and state, which union is unconstitutional. Such conditions have no place here nor elsewhere, but I know that members of the Mormon church have, in their official capacity as block teachers, gone from house to house in the dark, bearing the orders of their superiors, and giving instructions to their fellow church members as to which of fellow church members as to which of two candidates must be voted for. I give notice now that these things I propose shall be investigated."

So spoke E. B. Critchlow, member of the board of education and candidate to succeed himself, in response to the warm remarks and equally sensational accusations made by his colleague from the Second precinct, Arnold G. Giauque, at yesterday noon's special meeting of the board. Mr. Giauque was an active supporter of John C. Cutler and Charles W. Symons in their independent candidacies, and when Mr. Critchlow had finished his broadside, caimly and deliberately delivered, the holdover member from the Second looked as though he apprehended that the worst was yet to come. Immediate additional of the second looked as though he apprehended that the worst was yet to come. Immediate holdover hospital he apprehended that the worst was yet to come. Immediate adjournment relieved him from long-drawn-out embarrassment, or, rather, postponed the discomfiture that, according to Critchlow, is yet to come in his very near vicinity.

After the appointment of two additional sets of election judges for the First precinct poil, in order to accommodate the unexpected rush of voters, Mr. Glauque exhibited a printed address to voters, alrealated by and over the signatures of Messrs, Callister, Ure, Jones, Cowley, Watson, Anderson, McJones, Cowley, Watson, Anderson, Mr. the signatures of Messrs. Callister, Ure, Jones, Cowley, Watson, Anderson, Mc-Lachlan, Smith and Neison, in further-ance of Mr. Cutler's candidacy. Mr. Glauque read the following extract from the campagn circular: "He (Mr. Cutler) is opposed to turning the school system into a political machine, and to assessing teachers for campaign purposes, in order to further the interests of candidates for members of the school board, as is reported, on good authority, to have been done in last year's school election, and is being repeated this year."

Then the member from the Second announced that he had the evidence to substantiate charges of the nature indicated in the quoted sentence, and proposed to have a full and searching

WYOMING SHEEP DYING.

Stockmen Fear Some New Disease Has Broken Out.

(Special Correspondence.)
Douglas, Wyo., Dec. 6.—Over 1,000 sheep nave died out of the Guthrie Brothers lave Stock company herds in the past ten days. The cause is apparently un-explainable. The sheep were dipped about ten days ago, and since then they have died right along. Several carcassess were cut open and showed spots on the kidneys. Local sheepmen are consider-ably worried over the matter, fearing it is some new disease afflicting sheep.
